1 The French Revolution, c1780–99

Study Extract A.

Extract A: From a history of France, published in 2002.

The Enlightenment in France had some writers, called the philosophes, who condemned the ancien régime and the inequality it represented. They challenged the power and privilege of the Church. They believed that more could be done to improve the daily lives of ordinary people living in France. The philosophes criticised the idea that the King was appointed by God and also the claim that he was God's representative on earth. They believed that the King should use his powers more effectively in an attempt to improve the wealth and happiness of the people he governed.

- (a) What impression does the author give about the philosophes in France?

You must use Extract A to explain your answer.

2 Development of a nation: unification of Italy, 1848–70

Study Extract B.

Extract B: From a history of Italy, published in 2023.

Without Giuseppe Garibaldi, the southern Italian states would not have been part of the unification process. In 1860, Garibaldi organised an army (referred to as the 'Thousand') to take control of the southern part of the Italian peninsula. They landed first in Sicily and then moved onwards into Naples. Garibaldi and his men easily overthrew the Bourbon monarchy and handed over the southern territories to Victor Emmanuel II, King of Piedmont-Sardinia. As a result, in early 1861, a national parliament met and proclaimed the Kingdom of Italy, with Victor Emmanuel II as its King.

- (a) What impression does the author give about the role of Garibaldi in the unification of Italy?

You must use Extract B to explain your answer.

3 Germany: development of dictatorship, 1918–45

Study Extract C.

Extract C: From a history of Germany, published in 2017.

The Great Depression after 1929, brought about a massive economic crisis for the Weimar Republic, which it found difficult to deal with. Within the government there was little agreement about how to tackle growing unemployment and the desperate poverty that many Germans were now experiencing. All that Brüning's reduction of government spending achieved was to lose him the support of the unemployed. He earned the nickname 'hunger chancellor'. Little was done to prevent banks from collapsing. The government's problems helped the violent extremist parties, who had success in regional and national elections.

- (a) What impression does the author give about the response of the Weimar Government to the Great Depression?

You must use Extract C to explain your answer.

(6)

- (b) Explain two effects of the Reichstag Fire on the Nazi Party.

(Total for Question 3 = 30 marks)

4 Colonial rule and the nationalist challenge in India, 1919–47

Study Extract D.

Extract D: From a history of India, published in 2010.

The reason for sending Mountbatten to negotiate the final stages of India's independence was that he was totally different from any of the previous Viceroys. His sheer determination to be seen as a man of action brought a refreshing change to Indian politics. He consulted with as many people as possible. He was seen as the man who could overcome the problems created by the disagreements between Congress and the Muslim League. In meetings with Gandhi, Nehru and other Congress leaders, Mountbatten's charm and flattery worked, as did his determination to find a solution.

- (a) What impression does the author give about Mountbatten's role in India's independence?

You must use Extract D to explain your answer.

5 Dictatorship and conflict in the USSR, 1924–53

Study Extract E.

Extract E: From a history of the modern world, published in 2016.

Stalin was a skilled politician, and he planned his bid for power carefully. He made great efforts to link himself to Lenin wherever possible. Stalin tricked Trotsky, who was away in southern Russia, by giving him the wrong date for Lenin's funeral. When Trotsky did not attend, Stalin could portray himself as chief mourner and Lenin's closest friend. Stalin also used his power within the Communist Party. He took on many boring but important jobs. He used these jobs to place his supporters into important posts and transfer supporters of his rivals to out-of-the-way positions.

- (a) What impression does the author give about how Stalin was able to be successful in his leadership bid?

You must use Extract E to explain your answer.

(6)

(Total for Question 5 = 30 marks)

6 A world divided: superpower relations, 1943–72

Study Extract F.

Extract F: From a history of modern Europe, published in 2015.

During the war, the West and the Soviet Union put aside their differences in order to fight the common enemy, Germany. At the end of the war, however, these differences became increasingly evident.

By 1945, the Soviet Army was in occupation of most of Eastern Europe, and there was little the West could do about it. The Potsdam Conference in July/August 1945 achieved little. President Truman left the Conference alarmed about the failure of Stalin to keep to what had been agreed at Yalta. Truman and British leaders feared that Stalin was determined to expand communism.

- (a) What impression does the author give about relations between the Soviet Union and the West at the end of the Second World War?

You must use Extract F to explain your answer.

(6)

You must also use information of your own.

(16)

(Total for Question 6 = 30 marks)

7 A divided union: civil rights in the USA, 1945–74

Study Extract G.

Extract G: From a history of America, published in 2007.

Courageous individuals took great personal risks to challenge segregation. The Montgomery Bus Boycott is a good example. On 1 December 1955, Mrs Rosa Parks, a black American dressmaker, refused to give up her bus seat to a white man. In many southern communities, including Montgomery, the law required black Americans to give up their seat to a white person when requested. So, Mrs Parks was arrested. Her actions brought about a remarkable unity. For months, black Americans formed carpools, hitchhiked or simply walked. The boycotters finally won a federal case they had against bus segregation.

- (a) What impression does the author give about the contribution of Rosa Parks to the Montgomery Bus Boycott?

You must use Extract G to explain your answer.

8 South Africa: from union to the end of apartheid, 1948–94

Study Extract H.

Extract H: From a history of South Africa, published in 2014.

The ANC leadership tried unsuccessfully to manage protesters in the early 1950s. The Defiance Campaign provided an opportunity for people to express their deep frustrations. When extensive rioting broke out in several areas, the ANC called off the national campaign, fearing that the anger of the people was getting out of hand. This was shown when police opened fire on a meeting in November 1952. Around 250 black people were massacred, far more than the official death toll of nine. The ANC emphasised that the rioters and lawless youths were not part of its organisation.

- (a) What impression does the author give about resistance to apartheid in the early 1950s?

You must use Extract H to explain your answer.

(6)

- (b) Explain two effects of de Klerk's reforms on South Africa in the 1990s.
